

I, _____, do hereby acknowledge that all of our service technicians have received training on venting, recovery, recycling, and replacement of chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs), hydrochlorofluorocarbons (HCFCs), and other refrigerants used in air conditioning and refrigerant systems, units, and small appliances, and have taken and passed an EPA-approved test appropriate for the equipment that they service and/or dispose of.

I am aware that regulations require that persons servicing appliances normally containing refrigerant must provide the owner/operator of such appliances with an invoice or other documentation, which indicates the amount of refrigerant added to the appliance and I agree to provide this documentation.

I agree that all of our service technicians will follow procedures for servicing, repairing, and disposing of any and all refrigerant-containing devices, units, and systems as outlined by company policy and federal, state, and local laws and regulations now in effect or hereinafter enacted which pertain to the Federal Clean Air Act of 1990 (as amended).

I am aware of the significant harm to the earth's atmosphere caused by venting refrigerants into the air. We agree not to willfully vent refrigerants into the air under any circumstances. I understand that our organization will be held responsible and liable if I or any of our service technicians willfully violate the Federal Clean Air Act of 1990 regarding venting of refrigerants and that we are liable for any and all fines associated with violations (currently up to $37,500 per occurrence). Any unintentional venting will be documented in accordance with company policy.

I understand that if we willfully violate the Clean Air Act of 1990 (as amended), we will fully protect, indemnify, hold harmless, and defend the Penn State University from and against any and all liability regarding the handling, venting, and/or disposal of any and all refrigerants. We also agree to provide a copy of the Federal Certification numbers for all our service technicians and information regarding recycling and recovery equipment upon request.
